

At our relatively small office, we constantly receive unsolicited faxes. Since we have one fax machine, and the trend appears to be "send this fax to anything that can answer a phone", it's very common that we have an unsolicited fax waiting in our voice mail. We then waste time to "listen" to it, forward to the fax machine, only to find out it's not important.

Please, enforce the rules against these unscrupulous companies. They waste time, energy, and resources.

Thank you,

-Eric Fritzges